

The Attackers: Satanic Appeals to the Benighted's Sense of Justice: Righting Wrongs, Assisting the Poor, Saving the Planet, Economic Justice; Loving the Sinner & His Sins; Verbicide of "god"; Doctrinal Churches Are Threats to the Dark Side; Discord Is the Failure of Memorization Not Extended to Application; Despoiling of the Soul Accomplished through "Philosophy," Col 2:8

3. These "deceitful workers" and "servants of righteousness" are experts in utilizing appeals to a person's sense of justice to lure them into a human-good modus operandi: to right some wrong, to lift up the poor and destitute, to save the planet, to achieve economic justice, to not only love the sinner but also love his sins to avoid being judgmental, to accept "god" of all religions and the same "god."
4. These examples are areas of human good transformed into evil. Each one has a cosmic and a spiritual solution, but the former simply requires emotion while the latter demands application.
5. The righting of wrongs is managed in the nation by means of laws and their penalty clauses. Perceived wrongs within the population that are not unlawful but inconvenient are to be managed by the individual from problem-solving resources available to him.
6. The poor and destitute have legitimate and illegitimate reasons for their plight. The one giving assistance has an obligation to be a good steward of his own finances and therefore has the right to investigate the reasons for the claimant's circumstance. When the government gets involved there is no filter to identify the difference between the destitute and the mooch.
7. The planet does not need saving. It is the height of arrogance to even suggest that there is something mankind can do to destroy what God has created. Man has been given dominion over the earth and its resources. To reject God's grace provisions is to insult the Giver and there are dire successions and relations to come to ingrates.

8. The campaign for economic justice is a euphemistic phrase defining a rhetorical veil to conceal while advancing legalized stealing of other people's possessions. Unleashed capitalism will sustain a maximum number of people in a country. Socialism limits the free flow of goods and services and a maximum number of people suffer. Yet the poor remain an easy vote for the puppet masters.
9. The elimination of moral standards unleashes the sinful nature to operate without restraint. Objections from those who recognize behaviors that will destroy the society are categorized as being judgmental. Deviant sex and unorthodox marriages threaten the stability of the nation and the resultant successions and relations amplify the cycles of discipline.
10. The Bible is clear about Who we are to worship. The Lord informed Moses on Sinai and Moses informed the people in his commencement address:

Exodus 20:3 - "You shall have no other gods before Me."

Deuteronomy 4:35b - "... the Lord, He is God; there is no other besides Him."

11. As headquarters for evangelism and spiritual growth, every client nation comes under relentless satanic assault.
12. Lucifer's fate is certain, but he can delay the inevitable by interfering with the spiritual advance of believers. In the Church Age the satellite operation for this task are the local churches.
13. Doctrine is not the central message of most of the churches in this country. Whereas learning God's Word is the priority this has been pushed aside for music, entertainment, and superficial Bible studies.
14. The current recession has closed a number of churches that took on more debt than they could carry and we find a significant number in foreclosure:

LOS ANGELES, March 9 (Reuters) - Banks are foreclosing on America's churches in record numbers as lenders increasingly lose patience with religious facilities that have defaulted on their mortgages, according to new data.

The surge in church foreclosures represents a new wave of distressed property seizures triggered by the 2008 financial crash, analysts say, with many banks no longer willing to grant struggling religious organizations forbearance.

Since 2010, 270 churches have been sold after defaulting on their loans, with 90 percent of those sales coming after a lender-triggered foreclosure, according to the real estate information company CoStar Group.

In 2011, 138 churches were sold by banks, an annual record, with no sign that these religious foreclosures are abating, according to CoStar. That compares to just 24 sales in 2008 and only a handful in the decade before.

The church foreclosures have hit all denominations across America, black and white, but with small to medium size houses of worship the worst. Most of these institutions have ended up being purchased by other churches.<sup>1</sup>

15. This church is debt free; likewise, Media Ministries. Through grace giving, each organization is able to direct offerings to each toward the presentation and dissemination of the Word of God to those who are positive. Obviously, necessary expenditures are required for the upkeep of the building by the church and maintenance and purchase of equipment for Media Ministries.
16. Churches that teach doctrine and do not depend on the need to recruit new members to pay down a debt are a threat to the Dark Side and this church is no exception.
17. Lucifer can surreptitiously influence distractions that cause reactor factors among the congregation that create a less than copacetic environment.

---

<sup>1</sup> Tim Reid, "Banks foreclosing on US churches in record numbers," Mar 8, 2012. Accessed, Mar 14, 2012. <http://www.reuters.com/article/2012/03/09/usa-housing-churches-idUSL2E8E804X20120309>

18. Each of us must be attentive to how we conduct ourselves so that none of us becomes the cause for discord. It can happen innocently or otherwise, but regardless of how it occurs it is because memorization is not extended to application.
19. Each one of us is vulnerable to become one of Satan's "servants of righteousness." In the heat of the Angelic Conflict, the Dark Side will despoil a believer's soul if he is not prepared to defend himself against its insidious devices.
20. What methods do these false apostles use to despoil the believer's soul? Remember, we are engaged in invisible warfare. The battleground is the soul and the artillery is thought.
21. Despoiling one's thought process is the objective of those who wish to collectivize a population into their way of thinking. The process and procedure for doing so is what follows beginning with the preposition διὰ (diá): "through."
22. The definite article τῆς (tés) comes next and although not translated it introduces the Granville Sharp rule for the two nouns that follow.
23. The first is the ablative singular of agency of the feminine noun φιλοσοφία (philosophía): philosophy. This is a compound of the nouns φιλέω (philéō): love and σοφία (sophia): wisdom.
24. The Greeks considered this word to define the highest level of intellect, yet this is a hapax legomenon – the only place in Scripture where the word appears.
25. In context, Paul uses it to identify the philosophies of Greek Gnosticism and Hebrew Judaism. There were the two major attacks on the souls of new Christians during the first century.